product summary

Approximately 2.25 billion cups of coffee are consumed around the world every day, with about two-thirds of the people in the U.S.A. drinking at least one cup per day. Coffee is a part of so many people's everyday lives, making it a natural, easy way to explore the many potential benefits of Cannabidiol (CBD).

Now you can RISE and shine every day with our premium, 100% organic, fair trade Arabica Coffee from Brazil with a rich, smooth flavor with a natural low acidity. RISE delivers 25mg of THC-free water-soluble cannabinoids in every cup.

Rise's formula infuses nanoemulsified hemp extract into premium ground Arabica beans, before they're brewed, resulting in a more consistent measurement of CBD per cup than simply dropping CBD oil into coffee.

The patent-pending water-soluble CBD oil formulation was developed through a proprietary nanoemulsion technology.

Active compounds are transformed into nano-sized emulsions, making them highly bioavailable within the body, and more permeable when applied topically. They are intended for dissolution immediately prior to consumption, which leads to a better dispersion of phytocannabinoids in the formula.

Cannabidiol (CBD) provides a balance to coffee's natural caffeine and, for many people, alleviates the caffeine jitters and acid belly often associated with drinking coffee. Which makes sense because research suggests that CBD has both anti-anxiety and anti-nausea effects.

CBD's energizing effects may reduce the overall amount of caffeine needed to perk up.

Both caffeine and CBD have been shown through research studies to promote happiness and overall health benefits.

They each possess antioxidant properties that protect our cells and DNA from taking damage, assist regeneration, and protect against aging.

Coffee, and caffeine in particular, is estimated to be the most-used antioxidant in the western hemisphere. Research has found coffee consumption to be linked to lowered risk of diabetes, liver disease, dementia, and some cancers. And while the many potential health benefits of CBD are still being studied, it is a rapidly rising star in the holistic health world.

RISE is the perfect way to introduce CBD into your daily routine while staying alert, focused, and jitter-free!
